Reflection:

Committed to Love

In our times today, there are people who do not believe in marriage. They claim "Why get tied down when live-in is a possibility?" Commitment seemingly becomes a hindrance to true freedom. Yet, we know that it is only when we commit ourselves, we truly become free. We are freer to love the other person and think of their welfare. Some would say that it is just a document that would attest to the state of these persons. Why go for an extra step of marriage when love is already present? Exactly, it is borne out of love that people would want to share and announce it to all. Hence, we say about premarital practices: just because many people do it does not make it right.

In the light of the seeming lack of appreciation and understanding of the Sacrament of Marriage particularly with the popularity of divorce, Jesus invites us then to ponder on the original plan of God, that is, when a man leaves his father and mother and stays with his wife, and the two of them become one flesh. Such union of man and woman is destined forever. It then becomes a response to live in fidelity to the call of God.

The Good News is an invitation to a better appreciation and understanding of the Sacrament of Matrimony as originally envisioned by God. For those who have stayed together, we pray that the Lord will continue to bless your union. For those who have parted ways, one has to seek the necessary steps to give the marriage another chance and/or to attain reconciliation. And for those who are thinking of marriage, please think not only twice but many times of the commitment you are seriously considering. If you are truly ready because of the love and respect you have for one another, then you can be assured that God will provide whatever is necessary in order to keep that marriage. In doing so, you truly become sacraments of God, an actual witnessing of God's presence in our midst.

By supporting Frontline Workers

Day in and day out, frontline workers have been working tirelessly during the pandemic. While they are there for us, who is there for them?

Catholic Family Services agencies have served countless people who are on the front lines during the pandemic, providing counselling and support. Your gift to ShareLife is helping them cope with the stress and anxiety of being exposed to illness.

October 31 is the next ShareLife Sunday. Please give generously or anytime at sharelife.org.
