The Hope of Resurrection

Is the hope of resurrection in the future worth living for?

The seven Maccabean brothers in the first reading (2 Maccabees 7: 1-2, 9-14) this Sunday withstood the cruelest tortures and even died because of their confidence in the resurrection. Jesus also speaks of the resurrection in the Gospel reading today. Is the resurrection really worth it?

What are the qualities of our future resurrected body that makes it worth living for? Let us consider what the Scriptures have told us about it. And we have a preview in the risen Christ and our Lady in her various apparitions.

The first is 'impassibility,' which puts a person beyond the reach of pain, discomfort and sickness. So, it is with the resurrection of the dead. What is sown is perishable, what is raised is imperishable (1 Cor 15: 42). While the glorified body is 'impassible,' the bodies of the damned will suffer in fire and pain.

A second quality is 'splendor' or 'glory,' meaning that glorified bodies would shine like the sun. It is sown in dishonor, it is raised in glory (1 Cor 15: 43). St. Paul also writes, It is sown in weakness, it is raised in power. It is sown a physical body, it is raised a spiritual body (1 Cor 15: 43b- 44).

A third quality is 'agility,' by which the glorified body will be able to move with the utmost facility of movement anywhere and wherever.

A fourth quality is 'subtility,' which means it is subject to the absolute dominion or control of the soul. The risen Christ passed through closed doors.

The resurrection is really worth hoping for, worth living and dying for. As Paul wrote, flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, nor does the perishable inherit the imperishable... We will not all die, but we will all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet... and the dead will be raised imperishable, and we will be changed. For this perishable body must put on imperishability and this mortal body must put on immortality (1 Cor 15: 50 – 53).

Grace and Peace,
Fr. R C R A
