Prayer

Apo Holy Christ,

I know that You are hidden behind the veil of the Eucharist and that You are in Your Father's house. In Your Father's house, there are many rooms. Right now, as I pray, You are preparing a place for me. Lord, may I tell You how I would like my room to be? (Imagine being an interior decorator and being able to make that room any way you like.)

One day, when I least expect it, You will come and take me home. When I get there, I will know it is the place I have been mysteriously longing for all my life. In some way it will be as I imagined, and yet, it will be different. It will be a place of no more nostalgia, no more pining. I will be able to meet many family members and friends there again. Each day will get better and better. Yes, it is important to dream about that day and what it will be like because that keeps me motivated in my struggle to attain eternal life.

Meanwhile, Lord, I am here, right here, and I have work You want me to do. Some of today's tasks don't excite me; however, I will do them for You. In those moments of my day when I don't feel You, I wait. I know You are coming. Help me to be patient and accept Your timing because, those who love learn the lesson of waiting.
